

Chemical & Liquid Waste

We can't take chemical & liquid waste due to the problem of spillage during transport and problems separating liquids in our transfer station.

Animal Products

Animal products are prohibited for our drivers to take due to the contamination and special requirements needed to dispose of animal products safely.

Food Waste

We are unable to take food as this requires a specific licence and disposal requirements. Food waste should be disposed of with your normal rubbish collection service.

Oil

We are unable to take any type of oil, even in sealed containers. Oil should be taken to your local recycling centre so that it can be disposed of in a safe and clean manner.

Tree Trunks

We can accept some tree trunks, however, there is a diameter restriction. Please speak to our rubbish collection team for more details.

Asbestos

We do not accept asbestos at all. This is a dangerous material and must be removed by a specialist company that deals with asbestos.

Biological and Medical Waste

Human waste including septic tank, chemical toilets, medical, radioactive and empty hazardous material containers cannot be disposed of through Reston Waste.

Batteries

Batteries such as lithium batteries require separate, specialist disposal as they are an extreme fire hazard when damaged or when they come into contact with water. You must not place batteries in with your general waste or our skips.

Railway Sleepers

As of September 2023, we can no longer take railway sleepers as they are now considered hazardous timber waste, which we are not licensed to accept.

Telegraph Poles

Telegraph poles are now part of the hazardous timber waste group. As of September 2023, we cannot accept this waste type due to the chemicals they have been treated with.
